Keep a diary explaining how you are feeling and what you have done each day. This can also include what you have eaten and watched on TV.	Practise different methods and strategies for addition. You could make up your own numbers or add prices from a shopping list.	If you are unable to get out for a walk each day, especially now the weather is getting nicer! If you are unable to get outdoors, try to spend 15-20 minutes doing a physical activity in the house. This could include a yoga story	Go on a walk to look for signs of spring and summer. What is happening to the trees and the weather during this time? You can take photographs of what you find and make a diary.
We are studying Gangsta Granny by David Walliams in our class reader lessons this term. They make a plan to steal the Crown Jewels from The Tower of London. Can make a project about this London landmark?	Practise different methods and strategies for subtraction. You could be given a budget and keep track of how much you have left.	(CosmicKids), Avengers workout (Les Mills), guided dance (GoNoodle or Just Dance) or create a small circuit. Our next topic is all about keeping healthy, so you could maybe keep a log and record what you did and how you managed it.	I would like you to draw or paint a picture of your 'happy-place.' You could then also make a poster explaining your choice. You have been discussing this during our PSD lessons and have shared some lovely ideas.
Practise your spelling and handwriting. Words are added to Google Classroom on Monday's, based on our work in class.	Telling the time. Please practise telling the time throughout the day. You can also make a timeline of your daily events, recording the start times and durations.	Make some time for yourself to sit and reflect. What do you like about yourself? What are your goals? What are you good at? What makes you happy? You could also use this time to relax with a book. Take time out of your day away from technology where you can be still and quiet.	Can you change the lyrics in a song to make a song about yourself, your friends or your family?
Use a thesaurus to find alternative words in a book from home. Can you make the sentences more interesting?	You can practise measuring. How tall, long or wide are different objects in your home? Can you convert lengths from mm to cm and m?		Use the internet to look at the works of different artists. Choose one that you like and make your own representation of their artwork.

Research: I would like you to create an informative leaflet about a tourist attraction in or near to Wrexham. You must include where it is, how long it has been open for, activities to do there, prices, facilities etc. You can draw your own images or use some that you find online. Good luck ☺
